

ABSTRACT

A method for performing virtualization includes executing a plurality of input output (IO) instructions from an instruction stream during a single virtualization event.